

Graduate Studies in philosophy

Programs

MA Philosophy

PhD Interdisciplinary

The Concordia Philosophy department's mission is both to train philosophers and to produce articulate and informed graduates who share its commitment to serving the broader community. To this end, we equip students for careers in scholarship, teaching, and research based upon internationally recognized standards in the discipline. At the same time, we believe that the skills learned through out programs are very important for nonphilosophical careers.

The diversity of our students and their accomplishments is a constant reminder that philosophical scholarship is enormously enriching.

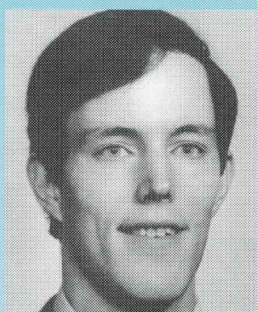

Sandra Boyle

PhD student and Royal Bank Project Manager, Costing Methods and Solutions

Edmund Coates

MA student and editor of Gnosis

Ljiljana Petrovic

MA student and winner of the Maria Teresa Hausmann Graduate Award

Mark Rozahegy

PhD student and Québec FCAR Doctoral Fellow

Faculty and Research Areas

Paul Bernier

Cognitive science; philosophy of language; philosophy of mind

Murray Clarke

Naturalized epistemology; cognitive science

Stanley G. French

Canadian political theory; metaethics and applied ethics; philosophy of language; feminist theory

Christopher Gray

Philosophy of law; history of philosophy

Robert Hudson

History and philosophy of science; epistemology

Sheila Mason

Ethics; feminist theory; political theory

Andrew Mills

Philosophy of language; contemporary analytic philosophy

Kai Nielsen

Political philosophy; ethics; metaphilosophy

Dennis O'Connor

Phenomenology; hermeneutics; philosophy of the social sciences; contemporary continental philosophy

Jack Ornstein

Philosophical psychology; biomedical ethics; epistemology

Desirée Park

British empiricism; epistemology; ethics

Andrew Wayne

Philosophy of science; philosophy of physics; logic

Vladimir Zeman

Continental philosophy with emphasis on Kant and neo-Kantianism; artificial intelligence; philosophy of science

FOR INFORMATION AND APPLICATIONS, CONTACT:

MA Philosophy

Graduate Program Secretary

Department of Philosophy

Tel: 514-848-2500

Fax: 514-848-4590

Email: eud@vax2.concordia.ca

PhD Interdisciplinary

Graduate Program Secretary

Humanities Doctoral Program

Tel: 514-848-2095

Fax: 514-848-4544

Email: dencol@vax2.concordia.ca

1455 de Maisonneuve Blvd. West
Montréal, Québec
Canada H3G 1M8

<http://artsci-ccwin.concordia.ca/philosophy/philosophy.html>

Concordia
UNIVERSITY

real
education
for the real world